His Type: Part 1

I heard about this when I was teenager.
How westerners see beauty in Asian appearance.

However,
through my experience,
I found that it's not really true all the time.

Like us, Asians don't have a definite rule to judge prettiness or non-prettiness in a westerner's appearance,...

.. vice versa,
there is no such rule..

This person is pretty because of this.

That person is pretty because of that..

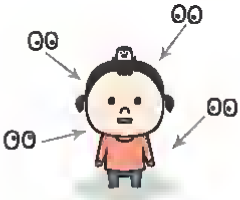
Personally, I like this appearance.

Everybody has a different ideal type and there are so many different personal standards.

Of course, the most important thing is...

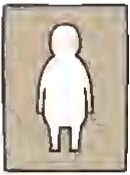
..., having a strong mind like this and...

... a warm heart.



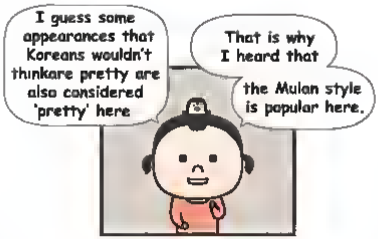
What other people think about me does not a matter, especially what westerners think about Asians.

Anyway,
I realized that



... a body size that is probably going to be called chubby in Korea can be a sexy body in England.

And small eyes or a strong jaw are able to be attractive in England.



I guess some appearances that Koreans wouldn't thinkare pretty are also considered 'pretty' here
That is why I heard that the Mulan style is popular here.

I think English people have a more generous attitude towards someone's appearance compared to Koreans.

However,
one thing that I can tell is that all people have similar eyes.

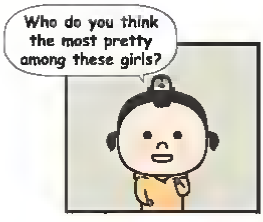
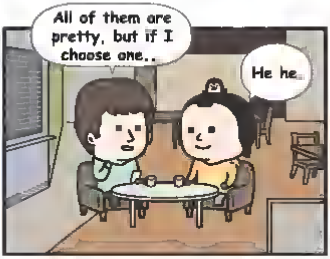
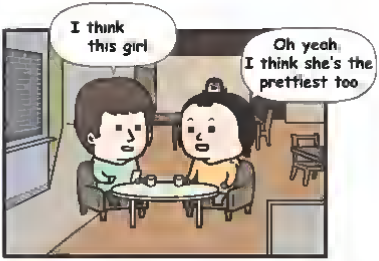
So if I hove a chance,
I sometimes show some celebrity photos to my friends.



And hear whot they think.





Seeing theses results is always interesting.

To be continued.